Direction for Questions 11 – 15: Read the given passage carefully and choose the most appropriate option to the questions given below. The World Trade Organisation (WTO) was created in the early 1990s as a component of the Uruguay Round negotiation. However, it could have been negotiated as part of the Tokyo Round of the 1970s, since negotiation was an attempt at a 'constitutional reform' of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). Or it could have been put off to the future, as the US government wanted. What factors led to the c reation of the WTO in the early 1990s?

One factor was the pattern of multilateral bargaining that developed late in the Uruguay Round. Like all complex international agreements, t he WTO was a product of a series of trade-offs between principal actors and groups. For the United States, which did not want a new organi zation, the disputed settlement part of the WTO package achieved its longstanding goal of a more effective and more legal dispute settlement system. For the Europeans, who by the 1990s had come to view GATT dispute settlement less in political terms add more as a regime of legal obligations, the WTO package was acceptable as a means to discipline the resort to unilateral measures by the United States. Countri es like Canada and other middle and smaller trading partners were attracted by the expansion of a rule-based system and by the symbolic v alue of a trade organization, both of which inherently support the weak against the strong. The developing countries were attracted due to th e provisions banning unilateral measures. Finally, and perhaps most important, many countries at the Uruguay Round came to put a higher priority on the export gains than on the import losses that the negotiation would produce, and they came to associate the WTO and a rule-b ased system with those gains. This reasoning – replicated in many countries – was contained in U. S. Ambassador Kantor's defence of the WTO, and it announced to a recognition that international trade and its benefits cannot be enjoyed unless trading nations accept the discipli

A second factor in the creation of the WTO was pressure from lawyers and the legal process. The dispute settlement system of the WTO was seen as a victory of legalists but the matter went deeper than that. The GATT, and the WTO, are contract organizations based on rules, a nd it is inevitable that an organization creating a further rule will in turn be influenced by legal process. Robert Hudee has written of the 'mo mentum of legal development', but what is this precisely? Legal development can be defined as promotion of the technical legal values of co nsistency, clarity (or certainty) and effectiveness; these are values that those responsible for administering any legal system will seek to ma ximize. As it played out in the WTO, consistency meant integrating under one roof the whole lot of separate agreements signed under GATT auspices; clarity meant removing ambiguities about the powers of contracting parties to make certain decisions or to undertake waivers; and effectiveness meant eliminating exceptions arising out of grandfather-rights and resolving defects in dispute settlement procedures and instit utional provisions. Concern for these values is inherent in any rule-based system of co-operation, since without these value rules would be meaningless in the first place, therefore, create their own incentive for fulfilment.

The moment of legal development has occurred in other institutions besides the GATT, most notably in the European Union (EU). Over the past two decades the European Court of Justice (ECJ) has consistently rendered decisions that have expanded incrementally the EU's inter nal market, in which the doctrine of 'mutual recognition' handed down in Cassis de Dijon case in 1979 was a key turning point. The court is now widely recognized as a major player in European integration, even though arguably such a strong role was not originally envisaged in the Treaty of Rome, which initiated the current European Union. One means the Court used to expand integration was the 'teleological meth od of interpretation', whereby the actions of member states were evaluated against 'the accomplishment of the most elementary goals set for rth in the Preamble to the (Rome) treaty. The teleological method represents an effort to keep current policies consistent with slated goals, a nd it is analogous to the effort in GATT to keep contracting party trade practices consistent with slated rules. In both cases legal concerns a nd procedures are an independent force for further co-operation.

In the large part the WTO was an exercise in consolidation. In the context of a trade negotiation that created a near-revolutionary expansion of international trade rules, the formation of the WTO was a deeply conservative act needed to ensure that the benefits of the new rules wou Id not be lost. The WTO was all about institutional structure and dispute settlement: these are the concerns of conservatives and not revoluti onaries, that is why lawyers and legalists took the lead on these issues. The WTO codified the GATT institutional practice that had develope d by custom over three decades, and it incorporated a new dispute settlement system was necessary to keep both old and new rules fr om becoming a sham. Both the international structure and the dispute settlement system were necessary to preserve and enhance the integ rity of the multilateral trade regime that had been built incrementally from the 1940s to the 1990s.

SubQuestion No : 12

SubQuestion No : 6

Q. Principle: There are legal provisions to give authority to a person to u 6 se necessary force against an assailant or wrong-doer for the purpos e of protecting one's own body and property as also another's body and property when immediate aid from the state machinery is not rea dily available; and in so doing he is not answerable in law for his dee ds.

Facts: X, a rich man was taking his morning walk. Due to the threat of robbers in the locality, he was carrying his pistol also. From the oppo site direction, another person was coming with a ferocious looking d og. All of a sudden, the dog which was on a chain held by the owner, started barking at X. The owner of the dog called the dog to be calm. They crossed each other without any problem. But suddenly, the dog started barking again from a distance. X immediately took out his pist ol. By seeing the pistol the dog stopped barking and started walking with the owner. However, X shot at the dog which died instantly. The owner of the dog files a complaint against X, which in due course rea ched the Magistrate Court. X pleads the right of private defence. Deci de.

An X 1. Shooting a fierce dog is not to be brought under the criminal law. So the case should be dismissed.

2. As there was no guarantee that the dog would not bark again, sh ooting it was a precautionary measure and hence within the right available to X under law.

3. There was no imminent danger to X as the dog stopped barking a nd was walking with the owner. Hence, shooting it amounted to excessive use of the right of private defence and hence liable for killing the dog.

4. The right of private defence is available to persons against assail ants or wrong-doers only and a dog does not fall in this category.

Q. Principle: The Constitution of India guarantees certain fundamental ri 7 ghts to its citizens. The Constitution also provides that these rights c annot be taken away by state even by a law. For violation of this, the person adversely affected by the law may approach the High Court or the Supreme Court for the issuance of an appropriate writ. One of the se rights includes the freedom to form association that implies the ri ght to join an association or not to join such an association.
Facts: Owing to some industrial disturbances created by XATU, one of the several trade unions in AB Chemicals (Pvt) Ltd., the Company i ssued a circular to all its employees that as far as possible the emplo yees may disassociate with XATU. Navin is an employee of AB Chemi cals and the current General Secretary of XATU. Aggrieved by this cir cular, which affected the fundamental rights of his and other member s of the Union, approaches the High Court of the state for a relief. Ide ntify the most reasonable legal proposition.
n X 1. The Company's circular is illegal and has to be quashed by the C ourt.
<ul> <li>2. Circular issued by a Company amounts to law in the constitutiona</li> <li>I sense and hence the High Court can issue a writ as pleaded for by Navin.</li> </ul>
💞 3. The prohibition against any imposition of restriction against a fun damental right is not applicable to anybody other than the state and hence Navin will not get any relief from the High Court.
4. The circular interferes with the freedom guaranteed by the Consti tution and hence the High Court can issue an appropriate writ.

Q. Principle: According to law, a person is deemed to have attained the 20 age of majority when he completes the age of 18 years, except in the case of a person where a guardian of a minor's person or property ha s been appointed under the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 or where the superintendence of a minor's property is assumed by a Court of Wards. Indian law expressly forbids a minor from entering into a cont ract. Hence, any contract entered into by a minor is void-ab-initio reg ardless of whether the other party was aware of his minority or not. F urther, though a minor is not competent to contract, nothing in the C ontract Act prevents him from making the other party bound to the m inor.
Facts: Lal executed a promissory note in favour of Gurudutt, aged 16 years stating that he would pay Gurudutt a sum of Rs. 2 Lakhs when he attains the age of majority.
