SECTION I (Reading Skills)

Read the following passage :

Travelling plays an important role in our education. The terms 'travelling' and 'education' are interlinked because when you travel you experience and learn. The instinct of travelling leads a man to see the unseen, to know the unknown and to unveil the mystery. In ancient times, travelling was very difficult and risky as there were no proper roads and transport. A traveller had to pass hills and forests. He had to face the fury of nature, wild beasts, robbers and many other obstacles.

With the triumph of science, travelling has now become easy, cheap, quick and pleasant. Inventions in the field of transport have enabled man to take up voyages across the world. From Kashmir to Kanyakumari and from Kutch to Kalimpong in the east, our country provides hundreds of places known for architecture, scenery, culture, music, history, dance etc. A visit to historical places will give students a practical insight into the past events. It also exposes one's mind to diverse cultures. It is a proven fact that educational tours increases our knowledge and widens our intellect.

Therefore one must take part in educational tours as it is both entertaining and instructing.

Read the following passage carefully :

Among the numerous days celebrated the world over, the one that profoundly impacts the present as well as the future generations, is the World Bicycle Day. On 3rd June every year, since 2018, the U.N. General Assembly dedicated this day to celebrate the joy of riding bicycles. This simple structure of a bicycle has a lever, pulley, wheel and axle and requires only air and a bit of energy to function. However, it has proved itself to be a friend to all mankind.

The bicycle symbolizes adaptability and sustainability. The World Bicycle Day therefore draws attention to the benefits of using the bicycle. It is an environmentally friendly and sustainable means of transport. Governments around the world are adopting and promoting this eco-friendly conveyance system. Apart from being eco-friendly, cycling also promotes good physical and mental health. Therefore cycle your way to good health and promote a healthy environment.
